

The phrase "And how!" is often used to punctuate statements. And how!

It's All In The Name by Leo Kremer, co-founder of Dos Toros

My brother Oliver and I love the fact that we founded Dos Toros. A lot of people don't know what we look like, so go ahead and give us a Google, I'll wait. That's us! Isn't it interesting how my head is thin and long, and Oliver's is small and round? Two very distinct, almost opposite head shapes, and yet our DNA is basically identical.

Our decision to create a fast-casual Mexican restaurant changed our lives forever, but it was almost a failure. Right before we opened, our branding consultant told us to change the name from "Two Tors" to "Dos Toros".

At first we were confused, but he explained that "dos" was Spanish for "two". And it turns out "tors", which was a word we'd made up, actually means "bulls" in Spanish. How lucky is that?! We'd never considered using Spanish because, well, we didn't know what it was. Needless to say, we yanked the old sign off the building, threw it off a cliff, and the rest, as they say, is what happened after that chronologically-speaking.

Also, did you know I was literally in Third Eye Blind? What the fuck is that about? I played bass! Truly like, what in the hell is up with that? You'd figure the bass player from Third Eye Blind might not own a fast-casual Mexican chain, but I do.

MY ACTOR'S SECRET... WITH REESE WITHERSPOON

My actor's secret is that all my characters are Jewish. If the script says they're another religion, my actor's secret is that deep down my character wants to convert to Judaism so bad. L'chaim fam!

Today's word is "HOUSE".

ADVICE COLUMN

My group and I are tired of our synesthetic friend. Unfortunately there's not much more to say other than his synesthesia is annoying. Imagine you're hanging out with your friends and one of them goes "Hey it smells red today." And no one else there can smell colors. "My goodness the air is violet this afternoon!" Okay? I actually don't have the facilities to relate to that. How do we cut him out without hurting his feelings?

Have you tried talking to him about it? Oh, I'm just realizing you can't respond. Uh, crack, all of my advice depends on if you've tried talking to him about it yet... Okay, if you see this, write in again telling me if you've talked to him about it or not, then in the next issue I'll give you my advice.

JOB LISTING - PODIATRIST TO THE STARS

Handful of celebrities seeking foot doctor to treat various foot ailments. Preferred candidate is pop-culture obsessed, a detail-oriented self-starter who is comfortable in a fast-paced setting, and ideally a good podiatrist.

She stood on the shoulders of those who came before her, like a pyramid at an orgy.

But this wasn't sexual partners creating a structure with merely their bodies.

It was a woman succeeding because of past achievements that weren't hers.

Which is not really a problem, honestly. Just the way things work.

If anything it's a good thing. A sign of progress.

God it's relentless with you people

LISTEN TO YOUR ELDERS

GRANDPA: You know, I can't unsee the things I saw when I served in Korea.

CHILD: I'm sorry, Grandpa.

GRANDPA: Yeah, I was a waiter there.

CHILD: Oh.

GRANDPA: I did it while I was there with the military.

CHILD: This is why we don't visit so much.

GOOFUS & GALLANT & EYTAN IN... "THE SHOPPING CART"

GALLANT: Hey, look. Someone left their shopping cart in the middle of a parking spot.

GOOFUS: Let's leave it there.

GALLANT: We should put it in its rightful place.

GOOFUS: Who cares?

GALLANT: Someone could get hurt.

EYTAN: You two... unreal to see you guys doing your thing. Seriously, so much respect for y'all.

NEW POLITICIAN

Our laws are archaic. They're out of date, touch, style, you name it. If -- no -- when I'm elected. Yeah, say "when." When I'm elected — did you type out that part where I decided to say "when" instead of "if"? Great. Yeah keep this too. I want the people to see my unfiltered thought process. New paragraph.

SO HERE ARE SOME OF MY NEW LAWS:

- ❑ Did you know, in this country, it is illegal to be naked in public? Ridiculous. Under my watch, it'll be illegal to be naked in private, too.
- ❑ Say it with me: No! More! Geese!
- ❑ Our restrictions around grave sites are suffocating. I will lift the lot. Darty time! Is that clear? I'm trying to say that if I'm elected, I'll make it so you can have parties during the day at cemeteries and stuff. Okay, cool. You're doing an awesome job. What's your name again? Bryce? Man, you're lucky I didn't know that when you were applying.
